Typical Company Services

- 1. I can help you hire, build, or structure a highly efficient development organization. I can mentor an existing group or help to prepare an internal candidate for greater responsibilities.
- 2. I can teach the Inspired Innovations™ process to your organization. Unlike most consultants, my work is not designed to create a long-term dependency on my services. Once I have taught the process to your team, you will not need me to be successful. At most, I may be asked to facilitate your first internal innovation session or I may be asked back at a later date to help with a particularly tough problem.
- 3. I can teach a Nano-Composites Bootcamp for your organization. I will teach you how and why this technology works. I will show you ways that you may use this technology to solve problems and enable new products. I have been active in this area since 1997 and eleven of my forty-seven patents are related to nano-composites. I have taught this Bootcamp to about twenty firms, at the National Composite Center (US) and at the Composites Innovation Centre in Canada. Nearly all of these have since introduced products.

- 4. I can provide product and application development services. I can guide you through the material and manufacturing process selection in order to optimize the use of capital. I have worked with most polymer resin systems, both thermoplastic and thermoset. I have worked with almost all manufacturing processes for polymers. I can help you choose the best manufacturing process for your application in order to minimize your capital expenditures. We will then choose the best material that works well with that process to minimize cost of quality issues.

- 5. I can help you with your intellectual property management. I have managed both large (650+) and small patent and trademark portfolios. I can help you to find more ways to leverage your intellectual property for maximum benefits. I have bought, sold and traded licenses. I have been involved with joint developments, joint ventures, acquisitions and divestitures.

On the following page(s) you will find pdf documents and jpeg files that you may download to provide more information and examples of some of the fun things we have done.

Some of these documents are philosophy, some provide details of my experience, some provide examples of the many products developed, some provide details of the content of the Innovation Workshop and Nano-Composite Bootcamp.
